Greetings,

April 2018

Michael, our friend from A World Aware, spent time at The Fold twice this month helping in regards to our school. It is difficult to teach in this culture where memorizing seems like learning but Michael's project is to help learners use information stored in their brain to dream and set goals that are achievable. Michael is also helping us to develop the operational policies for the school and working with the teachers to show them how to better help the children. He's also engaging the older children in a class called Biblical Principles of Living. Our aim is to help our children become forever learners in an environment that gives them every opportunity.

Our friend Sonya has arrived, and was immediately pulled into the school. We had an issue with the absence of one of our teachers, and Sonya graciously agreed to help out as she could. She is spending time with the smaller children and working with their reading skills. She's also making it possible for the younger children to have more computer time. She has been a huge blessing. She'll be with us for 3 months, departing on 7 July.

Dawid had an appointment this month at the hospital and received very good news. He's down to one small bandage and is now allowed to take a bath and swim. All of his finger and arm joints are responding to therapy and he has made very good progress. He also doesn't have to go back to the hospital for a month.

We were a bit late in celebrating our end-of-school year celebration, which should have been the first week of December. With bad weather and health issues, we finally got around to having it this month. The kids played and snacked the whole day, and had huge sausage rolls for lunch. The weekend after Easter, the children also had an outing to Fellowship Alliance South Africa (FASA). The children have been going there for a few years now. They had a fun day of vacation bible school, games, water slide and lots of food and snacks. They always have a good time with FASA. We had our monthly birthday party for our April birthdays. Mapaseka (7), Shamba (9) and Mama Mapula.

Prayer requests: Micky's cancer treatment. More funding for The Fold since the exchange rate has shifted from being in our favor. Short and long-term volunteers, additional missionaries to meet current needs at The Fold, especially teachers. Long term funding for our school. God's favor for the long-term future of The Fold.

Praises: Dawid's care from the medical community and all the fund raising and prayer support. Micky's "serious" chemo done and less side effects with the other chemo. All the visitors this month. Paul and Micky get to see family and supporters soon.

God bless,
Paul and Micky Prince
